All-In for Children

Dear Next Door Community,

Over my first year at Next Door, I have watched and learned a great deal from our dedicated staff, all while getting to know our inspiring children, families, community partners, donors and volunteers. Next Door is comprised of so many critical contributors, like you – and we are grateful for that support.

To continue moving our mission and organization forward, we are developing our new Strategic Plan, driven by our “All-In for Children” focus. The framework is shared below.

Being “All-In for Children” ensures all stakeholders are committed to ensuring our children receive the very best start – in life, in education, and in opportunities. Access to an exceptional early educational experience is where our work begins, as we know this is the brain’s peak time of development and that a strong early foundation matters.

Our Next Door team works hand-in-hand, together with our children’s families and the community, creating positive outcomes for over 50 years now. One of the best things to hear from an adult in the community is, “I was a Next Door kid!”

Through our Strategic Plan and the daily realities of providing an excellent early childhood experience for approximately one thousand of Milwaukee’s amazing children each year, it is our fervent hope that you will continue to support the good work of Next Door – and be “All-In for Children,” too!

You can learn more within these pages, and, as always, reach out with any questions – or come visit us at Next Door.

Next Door President

Throughout my son's journey at Next Door, the teachers have been nothing less than amazing. I mean, from encouraging him, motivating him, loving him, and most of all just being great leaders. I couldn't ask for a better start for my child. Thanks for making this experience awesome!

High-Quality Programs and Services

Our Center-Based Program

Children come to our vibrant 29th Street and Capitol Drive campuses, starting as young as six weeks old. Our programming continues through K4, providing a “first school” experience for children that is focused on building academic, social-emotional and physical development.

Their learning is enhanced across our centers with art and music education, robotics and virtual reality programming, library visits, nature-based playgrounds, and family engagement events.

Our families are engaged in their child’s education through daily connections with our teachers and Family Advocates, classroom volunteering, parent meetings, and special events. We further offer community resources to support families’ goals.

 690

across 2 campuses

 60

 1,870

including family goal-planning, classroom transitions, fatherhood connections, and crisis situations

Ms. Bershet sure had Kadynce and Teon focused on their math exercise! Using a pan balance, they were learning to quantify numerals in math by matching the amount of monkeys to the number on one side. Our center-based programming features daily periods of instructional time for core academic areas, including math, literacy, and writing. Our children receive small group instruction to help achieve maximum impact through learning. Opportunities within lessons build important life skills, such as problem-solving and collaboration.

High-Quality Programs and Services

Health and Early Intervention Services

Next Door's health team ensures we conduct screenings for hearing, vision, lead, and dental health for our children. We provide referrals to doctors and dentists and host on-site health fairs with resources for families.

Our early intervention team provides positive behavior support and strategies, helps identify developmental delays, and provides additional support to children, complementing the strong work of our instructional staff across Next Door.

Data proves that when we intervene at this early stage of life, we can empower children with solid resources and strategies to overcome challenges, preparing them for the next level of learning and overall success in life.

Jayceon's Music Success

Legs up and a grin from ear-to-ear captures the excitement of Jayceon during a music education class delivered by the Wisconsin Conservatory of Music.

Educators from the Conservatory lead the Smart Start program across all Next Door classrooms on a weekly basis. The international and research-based program works to build children's cognitive skills through the power of music. Next Door is one of the first early childhood centers in Wisconsin to offer this program.

Jayceon's teachers report his engagement has increased significantly over the past year. After showing low participation at the beginning, he transitioned to singing verses of songs like, "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star," and exhibiting greater clarity in his speech. He has also increased participation in day-to-day classroom experiences in music.

High-Quality Programs and Services

Our Home-Based Program

Our Home-Based Program extends our reach in the community with year-round prenatal services for pregnant mothers and parenting and child development support for families – all in the comfort of their own home.

Our team of Parent Educators meet with families weekly to help parents become strong teachers for their children and connect families with community resources to meet basic needs. We invite families to Next Door for socialization events throughout the year – providing opportunities to connect with other families.

It's story time with Ms. Jaclyn for children and parents enrolled in Next Door's Home-Based Program. They were enjoying the book "Rain Before Rainbows" in our Books for Kids Library. These library visits are part of socialization events we host at Next Door for Home-Based families during the year. Children get a chance to take home free books to build home libraries and participate in curriculum-based activities. Parents gain further resources from Parent Educators and special guest speakers covering topics such as healthy eating or life-changing events like a new baby at home. In the 2022-2023 school year, we hosted 30 events for families.

Maximizing Access and Impact

Our Child Care Partnership Program

Within our buildings and beyond, Next Door helps ensure under-resourced children and their families have access to high-quality early learning experiences. One of the ways we extend access and our impact throughout Milwaukee is through our Child Care Partnership (CCP) program.

We lead the largest CCP program in Wisconsin – working to improve the quality of learning at multiple early childhood centers in under-served areas of the city.

Our team of Next Door Instructional Coaches support teachers at the partnership sites with one-on-one coaching and professional development trainings. Additionally, Next Door Family Advocates, Health Advocates and Early Intervention Specialists all support families with goal-setting, access to having basic needs met, healthcare options, and connections to behavioral services.

Coaching/Professional Development support for 155 teachers

4 JumpStart teacher conferences hosted by Next Door

327 children directly served at CCP sites

647 screenings for hearing, vision, lead, and dental health

3,469 direct parent-staff connections, including family goal-planning, classroom transitions, and crisis situations.

Cruz is one of our Next Door Family Advocates who works with children and parents in our Child Care Partnership (CCP) program. Every week, she travels to her assigned partnership sites – including Jo’s Learning Academy, pictured here – and visits classrooms to help support children’s learning. Here she is working with Joemely on color recognition and building skills. Cruz works closely with parents as well, supporting them in areas such as enrollment, family goals, community resources, and family engagement in their children’s education. Family Advocates like Cruz serve in all of our 11 partnership sites.

Commitment to Staff

There is no greater asset at Next Door than the people serving our children and families every day across our two campuses, Home-Based Program and Child Care Partnership sites. We must invest in our team members to help them reach their best at Next Door and to be in “All-In” of support of our children and families.

Our commitment to staff includes our Workforce Development Department, which helps employees advance their education, meet professional and personal goals and remove barriers to success.

Here’s a look at our extensive coaching network:

Instructional Coaches

- Supporting teachers in and outside of classrooms by building skills in curriculum implementation, assessments, and student education plans

Meet AC and her Family

This photo captures my family in front of our first home! I am pictured in the back row, second from the right.

Next Door helped us achieve this goal in September 2023, with support from my Success Coach, Dorian. She provided community resources for homeownership and helped me navigate lots of requirements. Now, I’m just so happy and so relieved. I can finally say, “I can go to my home and have something that is mine.”

Dorian further supported me in advancing my education as a Parent Educator in our Home-Based program. I enrolled in Next Door’s Pathways Program and earned an Infant/Toddler Certificate at Milwaukee Area Technical College. I also received a Family Development Credential this year to further enhance my skills.

This was a challenging year for me, and many times I was feeling down. But Dorian was always there for me as a pillar of strength and inspiration. I’m just very happy to have partnered with her on my journey.

Commitment to Staff

Our Pathways Program

We further elevate our commitment to early childhood educators with our Pathways Program.

Working with community partners, Pathways helps counter the teacher shortage in our industry. We do this by developing new teachers and offering educational advancement opportunities for our current teachers to become Lead Teachers. The work includes on-the-job training for newcomers, as well as both on-site and campus-based college coursework – all free to participants.

Brittany and Alayna completed the Pre-Apprenticeship Pathway and are now Assistant Teachers at Next Door.

Our Pathways lead to:

- Early Childhood certifications
- Infant/Toddler Badge
- Early Childhood Educator Technical Diploma
- Associate's and Bachelor's degrees
- Leadership, administrative and pre-school credentials

Pathways remove barriers to success by:

- Coordinating classes
- Providing free tuition, fees and books
- Arranging for paid release time to attend classes or complete homework
- Offering hardship stipends and community resources for personal challenges, as needed

Pathways Success

- 57 individuals have completed a single pathway; one teacher has completed two pathways.
- 16 Assistant Teachers hired
- 8 employees promoted to Lead Teacher positions
- Expanded on-site coursework in 2023 from Milwaukee Area Technical College
- Added two new pathways for specialized credentials through the Wisconsin Registry and for the Infant/Toddler Badge

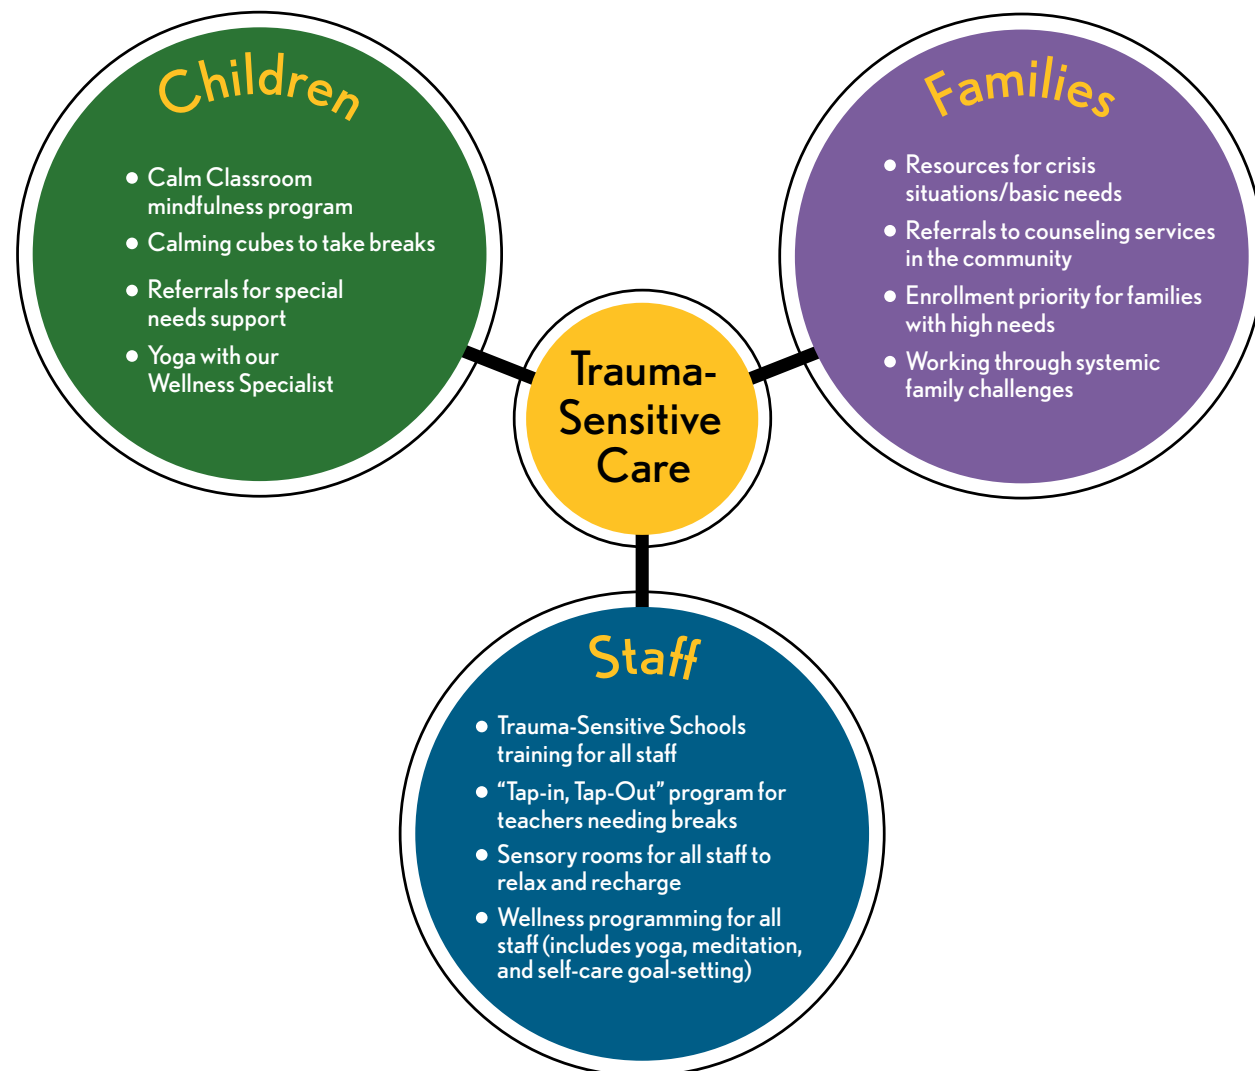

Our Trauma-Sensitive Approach

We understand that traumatic life events can impact everyone and can manifest in many different forms. We also know that trauma can dramatically impact the success of our children, families and staff. With this in mind, we strive to create a culture of trauma-sensitive care, embracing our entire Next Door community.

Our work in this area expanded in 2020 after members of our team completed training in a Trauma-Sensitive Schools model with Wellpoint Care Network of Milwaukee. Since then, we have created a Trauma-Sensitive School sub-committee to lead our work in this important area.

The sub-committee is comprised of staff from across our organization. The group leads trainings agency-wide, promotes empathy-building, and supports a host of services, as highlighted below.

Community Engagement

We understand that we cannot do our critical work alone, and that is why we partner with numerous local and national organizations to enhance our programming and services.

Together, our partners provide valuable expertise to expand our academic programming, support children with special needs, deliver critical health services, empower our staff with career advancement, and provide community resources for families' needs.

Help Support the "Be Like Mike" Fund

Mike Mastroianni loved being an early childhood educator. He worked in the field locally, having served in Milwaukee Public Schools, the Jewish Community Center, The Nurturing Nook, and the United Community Center.

Tragically, Mike's life was taken in November 2022 when he was struck by a car while riding his bike. In honor of his spirit of kindness and passion for teaching, his family created the "Be Like Mike" Fund at Next Door. So far, the fund has collected more than $90,000 in donations. The hope is to grow this into a long-term, sustaining fund that can provide annual grants.

This fund is designated for the support and development of male early childhood educators at Next Door. We are striving to increase our team of male teachers, understanding how important they are as role models for our children.
